Economic Development:

HMI's focus is to raise the waste places and areas of desolation and blight in economically depressed neighborhoods. The process of restoration will provide for safer communities, job and business opportunities, and potential home ownership to those who would not otherwise be in a position to qualify. Realized profits will be reintegrated into services and operation to improve products provided to customers. Banking services are to be provided in the communities where they are needed the most; eliminating the use of predatory practices and evaluating services provided to families and businesses with more than a credit score.

Community and Family:

HMI's focus is to provide a holistic approach toward meeting the needs of individuals and families without duplicating existing services that may be available within their communities. Our goal is to eliminate the cycle of poverty and distress, breaking down any existing barriers to productive lifestyles. Provide emergency support and relief while facilitating their participation in various programs designed to help individuals and families become economically sufficient.
